

H-4 TO F-1 CHANGE OF STATUS APPLICATION PACKET

Updated August 9, 2007

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS (FAQ)

Can I register as a student while I am still in H-4 status?

Yes. Current federal regulations allow an individual who is in H-4 status to be a student.

Please note that a separate requirement of being admitted to the University of Iowa as an F-1 student is mandatory participation in an OISS orientation and immigration regulations session for new students, which are held before each fall, spring and summer semester. You MUST attend an orientation session before you will be able to register for classes. The OISS adviser can provide the date of the next orientation session (mid-August, mid-January, or early June).

I have been offered a graduate assistantship. Can I begin my assistantship while I am still in H-4 status?

No. Persons in H-4 status cannot be employed under any circumstances; if you were it would be considered illegal employment. You cannot begin your assistantship until you are in F-1 status.

When do I need to apply to the USCIS to change to F-1 status?

It generally takes the USCIS 4-6 weeks to approve an EXPEDITED change request to F-1 status – they will only expedite an application if you have been offered a graduate assistantship. Otherwise it can take several months to obtain authorization for a change of status to F-1.

Do I need to make an appointment with an OISS adviser in order to apply to change to F-1 status?

Yes. The OISS must now keep track of all students who change to F-1 status. For this reason we will require you to use our address on your I-539 application form, and all correspondence from the Department of Homeland Security regarding your application will be sent to our office. Please bring an email address to your appointment; we will use this email address to notify you whenever we receive correspondence or information regarding your application. Also, if you wish to have your application expedited because of a graduate assistantship offer, we will need to issue a special letter and follow a different procedure for sending the application via Federal Express.

Under what other circumstances might I want to make an appointment to see an adviser?

You will need to make an appointment with an adviser if:

- you (or your spouse) are or might be out of status for any reason.
- you prefer to obtain an F-1 visa outside the United States and then re-enter in F-1 status, thereby eliminating the need to apply to the USCIS to change status.

What documentation do I need to submit to the USCIS in order to change to F-1 status?

- OISS letter to USCIS requesting expedited processing (if you have been offered a graduate assistantship)
- Filing fee: $300 (make personal check payable to "Department of Homeland Security")
- I-797 Receipt showing payment of $100 SEVIS fee (see next section for details)
- Form I-539 (see instructions below)
- A photocopy of your Form I-94 (front and back)
- A photocopy of your passport personal data page(s) (i.e., the page(s) with your photograph and the expiration date of your passport)
- A photocopy of your H-4 visa
- Your original I-20, signed by you on page 1
- Three photocopies of p.1 of your I-20
- Evidence of financial support (i.e., your assistantship offer letter, plus a bank statement if your assistantship covers less than 100% of your estimated costs)
- A copy of your marriage certificate, along with a certified English translation if it is in another language (This is NOT necessary if your spouse's name is on your H-4 visa.)
- A copy of your spouse's I-94 (front and back), a copy of his/her I-797/H-1B Approval Notice, and a copy of his/her passport personal data page(s)

What is the SEVIS fee, and do I have to pay it?

The SEVIS fee is the charge, effective September 1, 2004, assessed by the U.S. Department of Homeland Security, whereby all F-1 and J-1 visitors to the U.S. must pay a fee of $100 to supplement federal government expenses involved in the maintenance and administration of the Student and Exchange Visitor Information System (SEVIS).

If you are attempting to change to F-1 status, you will be required to pay the SEVIS fee before you can mail in your change of status application. There are two ways to pay this fee:

To Pay Online (highly recommended to pay this way instead of by mail)

1. Find the Form I-901 at www.FMJfee.com.
2. Complete the form online and supply the necessary Visa, MasterCard or American Express information. Be sure to write your name exactly as it appears on your I-20 form.
3. Print a copy of the online receipt.
4. Be sure to make copies of your receipt, and keep it with your other important immigration documents. You will need to submit a copy of this receipt along with your other change of status application material.

To Pay By Mail (this method could delay your application by weeks)

1. Obtain a Form I-901 "Fee Remittance for Certain F, J, and M Nonimmigrants" from www.FMJfee.com or request the form by phone at 1-800-870-3676 (inside the US)
2. Complete the Form I-901. Be sure to write your name exactly as it appears on your I-20 form.
3. Prepare a check, international money order or foreign draft (drawn on US banks only) in the amount of $100 US Dollars, made payable to "The Department of Homeland Security" (OISS strongly suggests you use a personal check, since it is easy to trace these.)
4. Mail the completed I-901 and payment to the address listed on the Form I-901.
5. A Form I-797 receipt notice should be mailed within 3 days of processing the fee. Be sure to make copies of your receipt, and keep it with your other important immigration documents. You will need to submit a copy of this receipt along with your other change of status application material.

Remember, your change of status application cannot be mailed until the SEVIS fee is paid and you have a receipt proving payment. Should your change of status application be denied, the SEVIS fee is not refundable. However, if you apply for F-1 status again within the 12 months following your denial, you will not have to pay the fee again.

Why do I need to submit copies of my spouse's immigration documents?

You are eligible to change to F-1 status only if you are in H-4 status--and you are in H-4 status only if your spouse has maintained H-1B status.

If you (or your spouse) might be out of status, please see an OISS adviser before you submit your application to the USCIS. You may need to consult an immigration lawyer.

If I have been offered a graduate assistantship, where and how do I submit my application?

Because you will be asking for expedited processing, the OISS must mail your application for you via overnight mail. The OISS cannot pay for the cost of sending your application by Fed Ex, so we will also need you to provide a credit card number along with expiration date, to which the cost of mailing will be charged.

If I have not been offered an assistantship, where and how do I submit my application?

After making a photocopy of your entire application to keep, mail the original application to:

U.S. Citizenship and Immigration Services
California Service Center
P.O. Box 10539
Laguna Niguel, CA 92607-1053

Send your application via "certified mail, return receipt," so that you have a record of the arrival of your application at the USCIS.

IMPORTANT: If there is a delay in the processing of your application, the OISS will not be able to help you without a photocopy of your application and your certified mail receipt.

If I have been offered a graduate assistantship and I follow the expedited processing directions, what will happen when the USCIS receives my application? How long will it take the USCIS to approve my application?

Unfortunately we currently do not know. As of April 2, 2007 all I-539 applications will be sent to a different Service Center in California. OISS does not know how the California Service Center will handle expedite requests, or if they will accept them at all.

If your application is complete, the USCIS will approve your application and send to the OISS your I-20, with a notation in the upper right corner indicating approval of your change of status application. The USCIS will also send to the OISS your Notice of Action/Approval Notice, with your new I-94 printed in the lower right-hand corner. You will want to cut out and staple your new I-94 into your passport, after making a copy of your entire Notice of Action/Approval Notice and I-20 to keep separately in a safe place.

If I have not been offered a graduate assistantship, what will happen when the USCIS receives my application? How long will it take the USCIS to approve my application?

If your application is incomplete, the USCIS will send you a “Request for Evidence.” You will need to furnish whatever information or documentation is missing. If your application is complete, you should receive a Form I-797 Notice of Action/Receipt Notice from the USCIS within two to four weeks. Your Notice of Action is very important, both because it proves that you filed your application and because it provides the “WAC number” which you must use if you need to track your application’s progress. If you do not receive a Notice of Action within five weeks, please notify the OISS immediately.

Your Notice of Action will provide an estimated processing time for your application, but OISS suggests you expect anywhere from 3-5 months. For this reason, you may want to consider leaving the United States to obtain an F-1 visa (possibly in Canada or Mexico) and then using that F-1 visa to re-enter in F-1 status, thereby eliminating the need to apply to the USCIS to change status. Please see an OISS adviser for more details. Please notify the OISS if you have not received a decision from the USCIS within the estimated processing time. You should also notify the OISS if you are planning to travel outside the US during the next few months or if you are offered an assistantship at the University of Iowa before your application is approved. The OISS might be able to help you obtain expedited processing.
