

AFRICAN STUDIES PROGRAM BARAZA

LATE PRECOLONIAL STRUGGLES, EUROPEAN EXPANSION & THE MAKING OF COLONIAL AUTHORITY

WED, NOVEMBER 11 | 11:00 AM - 12:30 PM | 315 PHILLIPS HALL

Using the case of northeastern Zimbabwe, an area claimed by the Portuguese but annexed by the British in late 1890, Admire Mseba will host a talk addressing how the making of the geography of European colonial possessions in Africa was influenced by local political struggles among Africans. Admire Mseba is a visiting assistant professor in the Department of History.

This event is sponsored by the African Studies Program and International Programs.
