The best planning you can do for study abroad is to know exactly where you stand in terms of graduation requirements - either to investigate whether program courses might satisfy outstanding requirements, or to know what UI classes it is important to get early registered for your first semester back on campus. Because there are many different programs, the key is to find a good match for your academic needs. In any case, the point is to avoid any rude awakenings your last semester at the time that you submit an Application for Degree.

1) Minimum required hours for graduation (e.g. College of Liberal Arts is 120s.h.) ______ Subtract the number of hours earned; how many hours are you short of the minimum total? ______.

2) List outstanding GEP requirements. Total hours outstanding: _____.

(a) __________________________________________ (d) ______________________
(b) __________________________________________ (e) ______________________
(c) __________________________________________ (f) ______________________

3a) Give your major: ______________________________ Is it declared? __________ Contrary to popular belief, leaving yourself “open” makes it much more difficult to integrate study abroad with satisfactory progress towards graduation. If you are undecided, stop by the department office of any major you would seriously consider and pick up from the department secretary a current information sheet outlining requirements for that major.

Hours of upper-level coursework required for the major: ________ Hours completed by you: ________ Most majors require a certain number of hours in particular areas, and additional hours from any major courses of your choice (the so-called major electives.) Complete columns one and two; initially, column three is optional.

3b) If considering a second major, a minor or a certificate, provide the same on the reverse.

4) Have you transferred credit towards your UI degree? ______ How many s.h.? ______ Does the program you are considering earn resident or transfer credit? e.g. the College of Liberal Arts resident credit requirement can be satisfied in one of the following ways. (a) A total of 90 s.h. of UI resident credit. (b) The final, consecutive 30 s.h. of UI resident credit.
(c) Within the final 60 s.h. towards graduation, transferring in no more than 15 s.h. How will you satisfy the resident credit requirement of your College? ________________________________

5) Determine how many hours you have available for plain electives: subtract the total of #2 & #3 from the balance in #1: ________
