

The UI African Studies Program presents:

Tanzanian social activists Annagrace Rwehumbiza and Richard Mabala

"It's the Context Stupid: HIV-AIDS and the Vulnerabilities of Adolescent Girls in Tanzania"

Tuesday, Nov. 15, 12:30-1:45 p.m.
213 English Philosophy Building
Presented by: Annagrace Rwehumbiza

Annagrace Rwehumbiza is a lawyer and social worker who specializes in issues related to the health and rights of youth and women in Tanzania.

"You Can't be Serious!: Writing Political Satire in Tanzania"

Tuesday, Nov. 15, from 4:00-5:30 p.m.
315 Phillips Hall
Presented by: Richard Mabala

"Contested Development: Tanzania through the Eyes of Young People Fifty Years after Independence"

Wednesday, Nov. 16, 4:00-5:30 p.m.
315 Phillips Hall
Presented by: Richard Mabala

Richard Mabala is one of Tanzania's most prominent political columnists and satirists. He is also a social worker specializing in youth issues and a prolific author of children's books.

These presentations are funded by UI International Programs and the U.S. Department of Education through an Undergraduate Studies International and Foreign Language (UISFL) grant to the African Studies Program.

Individuals with disabilities are encouraged to attend all University of Iowa-sponsored events. If you are a person with a disability who requires an accommodation in order to participate in this program, please contact Jim Giblin in advance at 335-2288.