

READING AND RE-TRANSLATION

an international colloquium

MARCH

28

WorldCanvass:

What's in a Word? The Translator's Challenge

5-7pm | MERGE, 136 South Dubuque St.

29

Reading, Text, and Power

Session One: 9:45am-12:30pm | Session Two: 2-4:15pm

1117 University Capitol Centre

30

Re-Translation, Experimental and Intermedia Translation

Session Three: 9am-12:30pm | Session Four: 2-6pm

1117 University Capitol Centre

For more information and a full schedule of events, visit:
bit.ly/reading\_re-translation

Is reading a quaint and antiquated technique?

What is the role of reading in shaping literary and cultural signifying processes?

How do (re)translations shape literary and cultural relations?

Funding for this Major Project was provided by the Stanley-University of Iowa Foundation Support Organization.

This event is hosted by the UI Program in Comparative Literature and the MFA Program in Literary Translation, with support from UI International Programs; the Division of World Languages, Literatures, and Cultures; the Department of Classics; the Department of English; the Department of Religious Studies; the Department of German; the Department of French and Italian, and the Obermann Center for Advanced Studies.