South Asian Studies Program Seminar: Jocelyn Cullity

Focusing on the actions of powerful women at a pivotal moment in Indian history, UI alum Jocelyn Cullity will discuss the roles played by Lakhnavi noblewomen, courtesans, and elite African guards during the 1857 resistance that helped spark India’s independence movement.

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 15

4:00 PM - 5:30 PM
1100 UCC

Individuals with disabilities are encouraged to attend all University of Iowa-sponsored events. If you are a person with a disability who requires an accommodation in order to participate in this program, please contact Sarolta Petersen in advance at sarolta-petersen@uiowa.edu or 319-335-3862.

Saturday, February 17, 2:00 p.m.
Jocelyn Cullity will read from her novel, Amah and the Silk Winged Pigeons, at Prairie Lights (15 South Dubuque St.)