SASP Short-Term Workshop on Ritual, Culture, and the Environment in South Asia

April 15-17, 2010
1117 UCC
(International Commons)

Please take note that the Saturday afternoon sessions will take place in 106 Gilmore Hall.

The workshop will explore forms of ritual in India that cross linguistic, regional, and religious boundaries, and exploit methods and theories from diverse disciplines. The workshop is available to students as a one-semester hour course. In addition, the workshop is open to the public.

Speakers include:

Paul Greenough – Professor of History and Community Behavioral Health, University of Iowa
Frank Korom – Professor of Religion and Anthropology, Boston University
Ann Grodzins Gold – Professor of Religion and Anthropology, Syracuse University
David Haberman – Professor of Religious Studies, Indiana University
Anup Kumar – Assistant Professor of Journalism, Cleveland State University
William Sax – Professor of Anthropology, University of Heidelberg, Germany
Frederick M. Smith – Professor of Sanskrit and Classical Indian Religions, University of Iowa

For more information, visit:
http://international.uiowa.edu/centers/sasp/events/default.asp

To register for credit hours, visit ISIS at:
http://isis.uiowa.edu

Sponsored by: International Programs and an Undergraduate International Studies and Foreign Language Program Grant

Individuals with disabilities are encouraged to attend all University of Iowa sponsored events. If you are a person with a disability who requires an accommodation in order to participate in this program, please contact Heidi Vekemans at 319-335-3862.