The School for International Training (SIT) and the Peace Corps offer unique opportunities to live, learn, and work in host communities around the world and explore the perspectives of the people who live there. Amy Burrows (SIT) will share information about summer and semester study abroad programs combining field-based research with academic coursework. SIT has several scholarships available, including one exclusively for Honors at Iowa. Meredith Mahy Gall (Peace Corps) will discuss opportunities to use your skills to make a difference in a developing country after graduation.
